Changed His Mind.

Once there was a bachelor man who said that talk was cheap, but one day he got married, and then he learned a heap. For when his so-called betterhalf doth speak of gowns and such he finds her talk is different—it costs him mighty much.

Thit Saving Motion.

"Some people do dislike work," remarked the Observer of Events and Things; "and yet it takes about the same number of motions to play one of Schubert's sonatas on the fiddle as it does to saw a cord of wood."

Travel, the Teacher.

No young man can boast of a thorough education until he has been abroad and learned the ways and ideas of other nations. In superior schools traveling during the holidays should be made compulsory, or at least strongly encouraged.

Make Use of Rubbish.

In certain towns in Germany householders are compelled by law to sort out their house dust. They have to provide three receptacles—one for cooking refuse and one for rags and paper. The rubbish is utilized by the town authorities.

The rule is that a gentleman is one who isn't conscious of it.

Doomsday Book.

A book of the general survey of England, commenced in the reign of William I. (the Conqueror), about 1080, some say about 1086. It was intended to be a "register to determine the right in the tenure of estates, to discover the extent of any man's land, to fix his homage, and to settle the question of the military aid he was bound to furnish.

England Adopts French System. The French gardening methods by which an acre of ground is made to yield, $2,483 to $2,920 per annum by the forcing hot bed process has been introduced in England. Vegetables are produced all the year and are forced by a steady temperature of 90 degrees.

Age of Animals.

The whale, elephant, swan, tortoise, eagle, raven and camel are all long lived animals, and have been known to exceed the century mark. There are well-authenticated instances of elephants, whales and tortoises living to be more than two hundred and fifty years.

Norway's Wooden Churches.

Some of the wooden churches of Norway are fully 100 years old and are still in an excellent state of preservation. Their timbers have successfully resisted the frosty and almost arctic winters because they have been repeatedly coated with tar.

The Philosophy of Folly.

"They say," observes the Philosopher of Folly, "that it takes nine tailors to make a man. I always acknowledge the truth of this old proverb when one of these dudes boasts that he has patronized the same tailor all his life."

Simply Impossible.

Big with the importance of a new discovery, a London preacher says, "Never check the flowing tide of woman's talk." We never heard of anybody who ever did.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"I wonder why it is," muses the Philosopher of Folly, "that when a 'preppie' building catches fire, they always send in three alarms."

Some People.

Some people hunt for work in about the same way that an optimist hunts for trouble.

Too Bad.

Poet—Whatever does this mean? My publisher sends me a bill for a new waste-basket.

Read Harp of Various Things column.

SIGNS.

(Chicago Record-Herald.)
Folks there are who figure weather
By the signs
Of the goose home or the feather,
Or the vines.
If the atmosphere should quiver
They can feel it in their liver.
And they're sure to get a shiver
Up their spines.

When they see a circle dancing
Round the moon,
Or a brace of sun dogs prancing
Just at noon,
Or if Venus or the dipper
Has a fit and turns a flipper,
Then were sure to get a ripper
Pretty soon.

When they feel the wintry breezes
Start to blow,
They will have a dozen sneezes
In a row.
And they'll say, "There's nothing to it;
I just know I can't live through it;
Long ago."

Gloom and trouble hold the center
Of the play,
Optimism doesn't enter
In the fray;
Our calamity forecaster,
With his almanac as master,
Discs up some new disaster
Every day.

If a whizzing glaze should clatter,
Let 'er whizz,
Let us learn to smile, no matter
What it is.
Say to every doom-bone wizard:
"Bless your pessimistic gizzard,
If the good Lord sends a blizzard,
Let 'er blizz."

Heavy, impure blood makes a muddy, pimply complexion, headaches, nausea, indigestion. Thin blood makes you weak, pale and sickly. For pure blood, sound digestion, use Burdock Blood Bitters, $1.00 at all stores.—Adv.
